Junior Podiatrist

Junior Podiatrist

Chiropody.co.uk is part of the Tx Group, a privately owned network which provides health and education therapy services in the North West of England.

Chiropody.co.uk is a leading provider of private podiatry/ chiropody care, treating a wide range of complaints related to the foot and lower limb. We offer immediate access to our services and work as part of a multidisciplinary team of professionals to ensure the best possible care is being delivered to all our patients in a comfortable and welcome setting.

We have an exciting opportunity for a junior podiatrist to join our team in Manchester on a full time basis. The position will predominantly be based in one of our two central Manchester clinics however the role will also involve attending occasional home visits.

We provide a friendly and supportive learning environment for our junior employees; offering a competency programme and regular supervision meetings with senior podiatrists who can help provide guidance and develop your skills. On a day to day basis you can expect duties to include providing routine podiatry treatments, nail surgery, cryotherapy and PACT antifungal therapy to clients, as well as completing various administrative duties linked to development of the service. There are also opportunities to develop your skills in the provision of nail reconstruction and delivery of biomechanical services, so an interest in this would be beneficial.
